Four Centuries

HENREDON FURNITURE INDUSTRIES INCORPORATED, MORGANTON, NORTH CAROLINA

From the 17th through the early 19th century French furniture design reached the pinnacle. It was during this period that French Country furniture flourished, too. Its inviting charm has never diminished; its importance in fine interiors and its elegant informality has spanned Four Centuries — and inspired this Henredon collection of bedroom, dining room and occasional furniture.

Four Centuries is an interpretation of originals that would have been found in country rather than town houses; unencumbered by elaborate ornamentation, its graceful lines catch a flavor - robust, natural, sometimes even casual - that make it suitable to people who enjoy their homes and their furnishings. Here you'll find all of the spirit of the country craftsmen of the period, and a remarkable contemporary feeling that makes this furniture absolutely in keeping with the way we live today.

A variety of complimentary designs offer an opportunity to create your kind of room. Some pieces are heavy in scale and others charmingly light, some all Rococo undulations and some simple classical silhouettes. The counterbalance makes for interiors of long lasting beauty tailored to individual taste.

To this variety of style, Henredon has added the diversity of wood finishes - the rich darkness of a natural wood finish, Cloister; the lighter vibrance of Cognac; a glazed 3 color finish called Talisman, and a sand-colored, dry-brushed finish, highlighted with brown striping, called Sahara. Beneath all is the strength of the solid ash and ash veneer from which the pieces are crafted, and often the decorative accents of olive ash burl veneer.

Nothing has been spared to make Four Centuries a most accurate translation from the French. Here is a collection with a look of casual elegance - unstudied rather than contrived. A look of ease and country-style comfort that is four centuries old and has never seemed newer.
